BRX Cargo Celebrates 12 years as an International Logistics Company

BRX Cargo, our G7 Network and G7 Projects member, celebrates 12 years as an International Logistics Company. Founded on February 20, 2012, BRX Cargo is a Brazilian company that has solidified its position in the International Logistics market over its 12 years as a Freight Forwarder. This marks a significant milestone in BRX's history. When it was only half its current age, at just 6 years old, the company underwent management and investment restructuring. Shortly thereafter, it faced challenges in international trade due to the Covid-19 pandemic. "These were moments of uncertainty but also of great resilience. They had to remain steadfast in their dreams to keep everything running, and today, they can see the results of so much effort," says Arnaldo Spinelli, who has been with BRX Cargo since 2017 and is the current Managing Director. Today with more dreams In 2024, BRX Cargo boasts records, achievements, and international recognition.

The previous year marked a highlight in the company's business conversions, a result of the good business practices it demonstrates in the Brazilian global market. Furthermore, BRX Cargo is one of the few companies in the Cargo Agency recognized with the ISO 37001 seal. They have adopted anti-bribery policies and are capable of mitigating risks in complex international transactions.

At 12 years old, BRX Cargo is dreaming again. "From here on, their goal is to expand departments and associated companies, bringing BRX Group to life", adds Arnaldo Spinelli. Words from those who lived it BRX Cargo's leadership is composed of individuals who started in the company as interns and/or assistants, having the opportunity to develop professionally. Employee development is a priority for HR and BRX Management. In an institutional documentary, Arnaldo Spinelli and other members who grew up with BRX narrate their key experiences within the company.

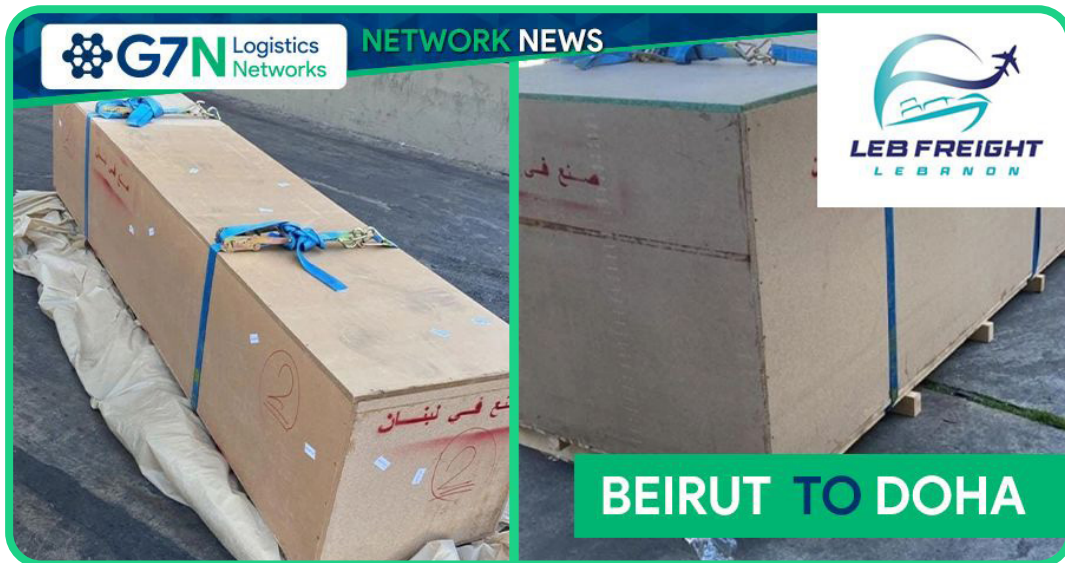

Congratulations BRX Cargo team, your G7 family celebrates with you on this milestone!

Manuport Logistics Services Successfully Transported the Largest Dinosaur in the World from Argentina to Barcelona

Safeguarding the Prehistoric World

Manuport Logistics Spain, our G7N Member approached this task with a well-thought-out plan along with the expertise from the Museo de la Ciencia CosmoCaixa and their partners. They designed and built custom transport equipment, including a huge steel cage to safely deploy the dinosaur, equipped with special shock-absorbing materials to protect its fragile bones.

MPL Spain planned the transport route, considering road conditions, and other possible challenges. They coordinated with local authorities and conducted trial runs to make the journey as smooth as possible. The journey consisted of multimodal transport, with land transportation from Trelew (Patagonia Argentina) to a nearby port, where the dinosaur was carefully loaded for its sea journey to Barcelona. The project relied on a highly skilled crew with experience in handling delicate and oversized cargoes. Some parts were too fragile and important to be transported by land or sea, so their team in Spain decided to use air transport.

Rrroaring Success

Manuport Logistics Spain's meticulous planning and execution paid off when the parts transported via land & sea, and the parts via air arrived safely in Barcelona. The replica of this dinosaur was delivered to the museum, where it became a centerpiece of an exhibition, drawing visitors from all over the world. This transport not only showcased their expertise but also contributed to the world's understanding of paleontology and prehistoric life.

MEMBER NEWS

From Patagonia to Barcelona

The dinosaur, named Patagotitan, was discovered in the Patagonian region of Argentina. Weighing approximately 76 tons and measuring over 120 feet in length, it was a paleontological sensation. The challenge was to transport this dinosaur replica safely and securely to Barcelona, where it will be the centerpiece of the Museo de la Ciencia Cosmo Caixa in Barcelona.

Dino-Logistics

Size and weight posed the initial significant challenges for them. With a length approaching 40 meters and a height of 12 meters, this cargo proved to be enormous. Attempting to fathom the weight of this fossil becomes even more astonishing when considering the original animal's weight of 77,000 kilos, equivalent to the mass of 14 African elephants.

Fragility: Despite its size, the replica dinosaur fossil was very delicate. The bones were fragile and susceptible to damage, making it crucial to ensure minimal movement and vibration during transport.

Distance: The dinosaur had to be transported over 10,000 kilometers from Argentina to Spain, therefore it was required to use their multimodal transport solutions, including land, sea, and some of the pieces needed to be transported by air for their safety.

Congratulations on the smooth handling and delivery of your delicate shipment, Manuport Logistics team!

Woodland Group to Relocate its Chelmsford Head Office

After 14 remarkable years of their UK headquarter, our G7N and G7N Critical members – Woodland Global Ltd being their Montrose Road site in Chelmsford, they are excited to embark on a new chapter by relocating their Head Office function to newly refurbished premises in the heart of Chelmsford Town Centre. This will see their headquarter operations run out of office space independently located to their quickly growing warehousing and fulfillment operations in the UK.

They have meticulously planned for this transition since the decision to move was made as part of a strategic plan in line with their expansion goals. This plan has seen them successfully increase their warehousing capacity in Essex through acquisitions in Harlow, Marks Tey, and Wickford, totalling 130,000 square feet. A further 40,000 square ft expansion is planned for the middle of 2024, further bolstering their presence in the region. Their warehouse footprint across the UK has seen a substantial growth of 360,000 square feet since 2020, making this one of the fastest growing solutions within Woodland Group and resulting in them focussing on securing locations that benefit their growing number of clients and suite of warehousing and fulfillment services.

In the meantime, their new UK headquarter will now be a walking distance away from the main train station, hotels, and local transport infrastructure and they look forward to hosting many of you there in due course.

MEMBER NEWS

This move marks another milestone in Woodland’s journey of growth and success. By creating differentiated space for enhanced and streamlined operations that will facilitate sustainable processes and development, they are reaffirming their commitment to progress and excellence.

Their CEO, Kevin Stevens, emphasized that “This relocation solidifies their position as a cornerstone of the Chelmsford and Essex business community. It goes hand in hand with their dedication to supporting local initiatives such as Essex Cricket, Chelmsford Rugby Club, and Panathlon, and positions them strategically to support local, national, and international initiatives and their network. As they embark on this exciting journey, they look forward to continuing their legacy of innovation, service, and community engagement.”

Navigating Singapore Port's Container Backlog: Challenges and Solutions

In recent months, the Singapore Port has encountered significant challenges in managing its container backlog, causing ripples throughout the shipping industry. As a vital hub for global trade, understanding the root causes and solutions to this issue is crucial for all of us in the forwarding community.

A recent article from Must Share News highlights the severity of the situation, noting how shipping delays have become a pervasive issue affecting not only Singapore but also ports across Asia. Carriers have been forced to omit Singapore calls due to mounting delays caused by port congestion, as reported by the Journal of Commerce. This congestion is a result of various factors, including increased shipping demand, vessel bunching, and labor shortages exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Despite these challenges, Singapore Port is actively responding to the crisis. Channel News Asia reports on the port's efforts to mitigate delays through innovative solutions and strategic partnerships. Singapore's Minister for Transport, S. Iswaran, emphasizes the importance of collaboration between stakeholders to address the root causes of congestion and ensure the smooth flow of goods.

As forwarders, it's essential for us to stay informed about these developments and adapt our strategies accordingly. The delays in Singapore Port have ripple effects on supply chains worldwide, impacting our ability to meet client demands and deliver goods efficiently.

In response to these challenges, it's imperative that we work closely with our partners to explore alternative routes, optimize shipment schedules, and leverage technology to streamline operations. By staying proactive and adaptive, we can navigate through these turbulent waters and continue to provide reliable and efficient freight forwarding services to our clients.

Let's continue to stay connected and support each other as we navigate the ever-changing landscape of global trade.
